Dear all,

Thank you all who participated in the just concluded discussion about improving the mission statement of our colleges and other edn institutions. in the last three days lot of discussions took place with active involvement from about a dozen people from colleges and trust. result is a beautiful, meaningful and crisp stt evolved with majority consensus.

As instructed by Chairman, I am circulating the new Mission Statement of our colleges and IT centre as quoted below.

"To seek, strive for and scale greater heights of quality education."

Please make the change in all records, exhibits, brochures etc.

Regards,

Mohanachandran

Dear KBM and Asokettan,

I want to make it even simpler:

To seek, strive for and scale greater heights of quality education.

In fact I wonder if we need to bring in quality at all; it should be taken as a given. But I'll not press that point. Neither the Royal Society nor Harvard emphasizes excellence or quality. But that is exactly what they have sought and achieved.

GP

Dear Mr sreekumar,

How about a further trimming like.

"To seek, strive and scale greater heights in Engineering, Technology and Management education through focus on the quality research"

Regards,

Mohanan

Dear Asokettan,

I hope this mission statement is for the college, VAST .
If yes, then I suggest to avoid the word "without compromising on quality ..." and give a positive touch by stating something like given in options below . We also need to modify "technological" and "managerial"....

"To seek, strive and scale greater heights in Engineering, Technology and Management education through focus on the quality of education " and another option is

"To seek, strive and scale greater heights in Engineering, Technology and Management education through focus on the quality of education and research works"

Best regards,

Sreekumar

Noted, thank you.

I suggest minor, very minor changes to read as follows.

"To seek, strive and scale greater heights in Engineering, Technology and Management education without compromising on the quality of education"

No full stop at the end, because this is not a full sentence. English is a funny language; often the function of an adjective is taken by a noun as in 'a head injury'. We often need to go to Latin to have an adjectival form as in 'manual work'. Thus, Technology education and Management education seem to be more appropriate than Technological and Managerial education if all we mean is education of technology and management. But I am no expert on English. I am sure that Dr Gangan Prathap will have an enlightened view on this matter.

Dear All,

Trust has approved suggestion from Prof. Jagatbabu to modify our mission statement to make it more precise and meaningful and communicated through mail dated 23-05-15.

Mission

To seek, to strive and to scale greater heights in Engineering, Technological and Managerial Education without compromising on the quality of education."

This was not endorsed at that time considering the difficulty in making the changes in all records and boards prepared for NBA. It is now circulated for implementation from now onwards.

Start the correction process from the college brochure under preparation. All are requested to make the changes wherever necessary.
